

TRAVELER OF THE QUARTER

Regensburg, Germany

SALLY
BLEDSOE

Greetings Ladies,

I have a confession to make. I'm a junkie...no not that kind of junkie! I'm a travel junkie. Specifically a Women Of the Midwest travel junkie! I can only imagine what a true junkie experiences. However, as a travel junkie with WOMW, I'm hooked. The feelings of excitement, wonder, joy, and anticipation is surely more than any illegal substance. I've been blessed to be a part of three adventures.

In 2023, the Germany/Austria Christmas experience took me from a snowy castle, hat makers shop to a monastery and Beethoven's music house in Vienna. From pewter, pottery to glass we saw craftsmanship unsurpassed. Christmas Markets, full with booths... mulled wine, music, and fragrant foods were at every stop.

2024 found me traveling the highways of Italy. Highlights for me included the Vatican, cooking class, and Pompeii. Wine flowed and food entertained my palette. As I sat on the balcony in Amalfi, with my dearest friend, we...toasted the trip of a lifetime with limoncello. Yes...probably too much.

This Spring, Greece was explored. I pair-shared a room with a new friend from my Germany trip. We are sharing again in Peru. Like she said, "we take care of each other." New friends...such a blessing...we never have too many. My favorites...cooking class, a family bee farm, and exploring the island of Naxos.

I have two planned for 2026...Costa Rica and Peru. New destinations...new adventures and the blessings of traveling with old friends and new friends! Travel ladies. Be a travel junkie!

Blessings,
Sally Bledsoe

German Hat Maker

Italy - Cooking Class

The Amalfi Coast, Italy

Ancient Olympia, Greece

Cooking in Santorini - Aprons created by Me